

Dear Beloved Mother~

This box has reached you through the kindness of a mother you yourself may never know. This same mother lovingly picked out these enclosed threads of love for her own child and now sends them on with the same love for you to share with your blessed little one. Our honest hope is that this box made you smile and let you know that we stand behind you as a community of mothers and friends united in spreading a message of kindness, hope and love. We ask nothing in return, other than when the mood strikes you that you remember this act of kindness and Pass It On, Baby! This may be to donate the clothes via our website or just share your message on our blog. Though it is not necessary, please consider submitting a picture of your beautiful child in something you have received for our website. If this small sentiment in any way made your day a little brighter, your burden a little easier, your belief in the kindness of humanity a little stronger a little brighter – than we have fulfilled our purpose.
